

Please do not allow public cell phone use on airplanes. it is a very confined environment where many annoyances are magnified ten fold. personally, being on a plane with cell phone conversations going on around me is the definition of hell. i would probably be led off in cuffs. i can barely stand the excessive cell phone use in boarding areas (another area where attendance is required, however is less confined).

however, the use of wi-fi or other internet access for laptops i feel would be welcome. people could use email or chat to take care of their constant need to blab.

thank you.

-bill